

Why Support Us?

Fostering Compassion is a unique and groundbreaking humane education project for Looked After Children who may be showing worrying behaviour towards animals or be struggling with compassion and empathy in general. Through our workshops and activities we share the stories of rescued domestic and wild animals in such a way that the children draw parallels between their circumstances and those of the animals. This helps the children see animals as sentient beings who can share similar emotions to them. Through sharing the stories of the animals, the children gain a greater understanding of their own circumstances and this often provides a platform for the children to open up about their own abuse and neglect. Children who have attended our activities have shown good engagement in learning, increased feelings of self esteem, self worth and self confidence, a better understanding of their emotions and behaviour and improved compassion and empathy.
